ABSTRACT

This directory lists approximately 860 postsecondary programs that prepare special educators, paraprofessionals for special education, adapted physical educators, or vocational special needs personnel. The directory is organized alphabetically by state and by postsecondary institution within each state. A set of codes is used to identify common areas of preparation within and across states. Keys are provided at the beginning of each state's listing to explain the codes used for levels of programs and areas of preparation. The information was obtained through nationwide surveys of the institutions conducted between 1989 and 1991. (DB)

PREFACE

Purpose and Organization

This is the third in a series of directories of postsecondary programs that prepare special education personnel. Previous directories were published in 1983 and 1987. This edition lists approximately 860 postsecondary programs that prepare special educators, paraprofessionals for special education, adapted physical educators, or vocational special needs personnel. The major purposes of the Directory are to (a) foster communication among professionals; (b) provide assistance to individuals wishing to conduct research on programs that prepare instructional personnel to work with students with disabilities; (c) serve as a resource for recruiting personnel; and (d) provide secondary and postsecondary school counselors and others with information on programs that prepare persons for a career in special education.

The Directory is organized alphabetically by state and by postsecondary institution within each state. Among the states there is a wide variety of terminology and systems used to classify programs that prepare special education personnel. Wherever possible, the range of terms and categories has been restricted through the use of common codes for areas of preparation within and across states. Keys are provided at the beginning of each state's listing to explain the codes used for levels of programs and areas of preparation.

Procedures

The information presented in the Directory was obtained through nationwide surveys conducted between spring, 1989, and summer, 1991. The surveys targeted programs that prepared a variety of special education personnel. Representatives of state departments of education were asked to identify colleges and universities in their states that offered approved programs for the preparation of special education personnel. A survey was then mailed to each institution. Three follow-up surveys were mailed to institutions that failed to respond to previous requests.

Department names, addresses, telephone numbers, and information on programmatic levels and areas of preparation were extracted from completed questionnaires. In instances where there were questions related to levels and areas of preparation, telephone calls were used to obtain clarifications. The data in the Directory are based on information provided by institutional representatives and are subject to the limitations of the survey methods used.

Some programs either did not return questionnaires or did not provide adequate information for determining level(s) and area(s) of preparation. For these programs, mailing addresses are provided, followed by "no information on program."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The studies that provided the information contained in the Directory were supported by the following organizations and institutions: The Council for Exceptional Children (CEC) and its Teacher Education Division (TED), the National Resource Center for Paraprofessionals in Education and Related Services, and the Department of Teacher Education at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock. Resources for preparation of the Directory were provided by the Department of Teacher Education at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock and the University of Arkansas–University Affiliated Program. The financial assistance contributed by these organizations and institutions was crucial to the development of the Directory.

We would be remiss if we did not acknowledge the many individuals who provided encouragement and conceptual support for the Directory as it was being developed. Judy Smith-Davis provided leadership and groundwork for initiating a revision of the Directory. The willingness of Jeptha Greer and Fred Weintraub to host research activities used to gather information for the Directory and the ideas for a new edition of the Directory shared by Fred and by Mary Cohen are greatly appreciated. Don Logan, as President of TED, was highly supportive of initiating activities to update the Directory, and the Executive Committee of TED has consistently encouraged their continuation. Gene Campbell (Dean of the College of Education) and Calvin Johnson (Chairperson of the College of Teacher Education) at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock have created a unique work atmosphere that provided the ongoing supports needed for faculty and staff to bring the project to fruition. Without this administrative support, the authors would not have been able to devote the time and institutional resources needed to prepare the Directory.
